Lower 24th Street Tree Removals

24th Street is lined with ficus trees that are aging, in poor health and pose a risk of falling limbs. This is a major safety concern for people and property along this busy commercial corridor.

San Francisco Public Works Bureau of Urban Forestry is planning the removal of ficus trees along lower 24th Street, from Mission Street to Potrero Street.

Join us with Carolina Morales from Supervisor Hillary Ronen's office to learn more about the planned tree removals and replanting effort.

March 20, 2019 - 6:30 PM
